

Castellabate is a beautiful town in the province of Salerno (60 Km from Salerno); it is in the “Cilento National Park”.

All tourists are attracted by the architecture, the atmosphere and the warm hospitality.

The waters are crystalline also in summery season when the secular trees offer the “frescura” to the tourists.

You have to admire also the rests of the stone employed in the construction of the magnificent temple of Apollo.

The nearest railway station is in Agropoli, which is served by numerous trains and it is on the route of the Circumflegrea.

In terms of roads, it is served by the A3 highway so it is very easy to reach this very beautiful site.